

Hello!

I hope you are doing well and finding something to enjoy and be grateful for in each day. I have missed seeing you all in person so much!

I wanted to let you know that I will be reopening the Neurofeedback part of my practice starting Monday, May 18th. I am not yet opening the homeopathy part as I need more time to see what I can do to maintain a healthy setting for everyone during longer appointments. Things for these appointments will be a little different, as I am sure you are expecting.

If you are considering rejoining me at this time, please read the information below and then respond that you are in agreement with these changes and what days/times are best for your appointment.

If you are not comfortable returning to neurofeedback right now, please respond letting me know that.

Here's what you need to know:

If you are not feeling well - please reschedule your appointment!
(In addition to helping keep everyone healthy, it is hard to do neurofeedback when you are distracted with symptoms).

There will be no waiting room time and I will not have more than one client in the building at a time.

Please text from your vehicle when you arrive, I will text back when it is a good time for you (or your child) to enter the building. With the space I am placing in between appointments you should not have to wait long.

Please do not bring extra people to the appointment unless they are able to wait in the vehicle. The only person who should come into the building is the one who has the appointment. If you are accompanying a child, one parent may attend the appointment with them.

Please have a mask with you (and for your child) that can be worn into and out of the building as you may need to pass others who are entering or leaving. If comfortable, you may remove the mask once we are 6 feet apart in my office.

The windows will be open during appointments to facilitate fresh air flow. In the near future there will also be a fan to pull air out of the room, and a vent to pull fresh air into the room. The room will be maintained at a comfortable temperature.

My office has been slightly rearranged to allow us to maintain 6 feet or more of space during your appointment. You will view the movie on a tv screen now, while I sit across the room with the laptop.

You will need to use hand sanitizer before touching the headband to put it on and again to take it off. If you (or your child) can't use hand sanitizer directly on your skin, please bring a pair of gloves. Then you may use the sanitizer to clean the gloves.

The equipment, table, and chairs will be cleaned between appointments. There will also be time in between appointments for airing out the room.

Also, the new neurofeedback pricing is $80 for a 30 minutes session. I am attempting to limit the time of the session to also limit exposure to viruses, etc. If the session does go longer the fee will be $100 for 45 minutes and $120 for 60 minutes. Assessments for new clients and follow up assessments will be reviewed in a separate session by phone, FaceTime, or Zoom.

Payments will be as no touch as possible. This means paying by credit card (I will manually enter the card number), or using Paypal/Venmo/Applepay. You may also pay by check if you are unable to use any of the other methods.

Blessings,
Rosemary
